Sam Moss Receives Letter of Explanation

Mr. Sam Moss is in receipt of a letter from Tommy White, manager of Yorkie Bentley explaining why the boxes were unable to appear at the bout advertised to take place at Mossleigh, Sept. 25.

Calgary, Alta.
Dear Sam:— I would have written to you before this, but have been waiting to get Yorkie in town before doing so.

I really was very, very sorry that things got messed up in that fight card, but at the last moment I was left in an awful muddle.

I was running around the city on the night of the show trying to locate a boy who I thought might put on some kind of a show with Wilson, but was unable to satisfy myself with what I could secure.

I really hated to bring a man out there who might have gone only half a round with Wilson, and "rippled" the fight business and with other substitutes you have had.

The reason that I could not bring Forbes Innes was that only the night before the bout he had suffered from a bad tooth and swollen gums, so had visited the dentist and had the tooth extracted, but his gums were still in a bad state.

The only man who might have given Wilson a fair show was Soldier Simpson, then that man busting up the other prelim. I did not know where to phone you, at the last minute, so waited a while as I had an idea that you might phone me. Yorkie is now in town with me and I can personally guarantee his appearance this time. Everything has been settled to satisfaction of the Edmonton Boxing Commission.

He is most anxious to box for you in order that you will not think too harshly of him, for circumstances under which he had no control, and possibly you saw in the Albertan, that I had informed the public that you were to have the option of staging the fight before he fought anywhere else, if you so wished.

I would like you to stage this go at your earliest opportunity owing to the bookings that I am getting from other promoters but hope you will miss the 9th of October because they want me at Rainier to referee their show.

Yours sincerely,

Tommy A. White

United Church Notes

The past summer has been very disappointing to many people because after a most promising spring-time, drought almost ruined what everyone expected would be a bumper crop. Some people feel that there is nothing to be thankful for so that a Thanksgiving service is out of place. This raises the whole question of the cause of Thanksgiving: Does it depend finally on what we receive or have, or on something within ourselves that is not much influenced by outward conditions? The sermon Sunday morning will give the answer with proofs from real life.

Bury That Hatchet!

(Reprinted from the October 1st issue of Weekly Market News).

It is difficult to regard re-minimization and abuse as an effective form of argument and in the discussions which have taken place relative to the minimum price for wheat and the marketing of wheat, a good deal has been said and written which serves no good purpose and merely results in stirring up strife instead of making things any better.

In recent issues of the Western Producer, the Pool organ in Saskatchewan, very considerable space is devoted to reports of what are termed "Western meetings" held at various points, where resolutions were passed condemning the limitations placed upon Wheat Board operations with respect to the current crop and the continuance of the minimum price and editorially, the Western Producer comments at great length on two advertisements issued by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association respectively. These advertisements, as is generally known, took exception to misrepresentations made by opponents of the present method of grain marketing and organizations in competition with the various elevator companies.

It should be noted at the outset, that unlike the Western Producer, the Weekly Market News, did not carry these advertisements, which was a bit worrying to our advertising manager but certainly enables us to take a stand without being accused of being unduly biased.

There are many people who take a middle view and who. Actually, the federal government has taken steps to get impartial advice by appointing a one man commission in the person of Mr. Justice Targueon.

That the foregoing may be assailed as a process of sitting on the fence is a possibility. Actually, we happen to be satisfied that an impartial investigation of the wheat marketing situation will show, as other investigations have done, that the present system works out pretty well for the producer and others concerned in the marketing of Canada's wheat. Likewise, we believe that producers themselves are against the idea of a compulsory pool compulsory wheat board or compulsory anything which restricts their conduct of their own business. So our seat on the fence is at any rate quite comfortable.

In any event, the issue under discussion is one that should be settled and can be settled, without bitterness and certainly without calling the other fellow names. Both sides perhaps have in the past erred in that respect. It can be settled at the cost of the commission of enquiry already arranged for and at no further cost by way

Girl Guide Notes

The first Guide meeting of the season was held on Monday, Oct. 5th, in the Social Credit Hall. There were eleven Guides present. The old Guides received their service stars for last years attendance. Three new members were present. The time was spent in Morse code signalling and playing Guide games. The new Guides are progressing wonderfully so far.

A meeting of the Girl Guide Mothers was called to assemble in the Social Credit Hall on Sept. 25 at 2:30. Five mothers being present the meeting was called to order and Mrs. Taylor appointed chairman. Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Weins gave a detailed account of work carried on during the year. Mrs. Coleman moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Weins and Girl Guides for the splendid banquet tendered the Mothers on Mothers Day. Seconded by Mrs. Lord and carried.

The Baseball Club donated $2 to purchase First Aid Kit on Sports Day.

Christmas party held at Mrs. Weins Dec. 17 was highly successful.

A farewell party was given Gladys Leonard and Dorothy Weiland, Gladys being presented with a small picture of the group and Dorothy with a First Aid Kit.

Camp was held for 8 days at the river with Capt. Weins in charge. A wonderful time was reported. Under Mary Dumka's tuition the girls made rapid progress with their swimming and life saving.

Margaret Richards reported many of the girls completed their second class work.

Financial report given by Mrs. Weins, books to be audited later.

Bal. on hand $7.97

Ranger bal. $10.84

Moved by Mrs. Weins, seconded by Mrs. Lord that financial report be accepted as read. Carried.

Moved by Mrs. Board seconded by Mrs. Taylor that the leaders have a free hand in arranging the program according to Guide Organization rules. Carried.

The meeting adjourned on a motion by Mrs. Board.

of expensive attack and counter attack. The producer will benefit materially when his champions of varying shades of thought make up their mind, or indeed are compelled, to bury the hatchet.

THERE ARE DIFFERENCES

Is there any difference between Pool Elevators and line elevator companies? The latter seems anxious to prove that both are the same, but there are several essential differences.

1. Alberta Pool Elevators are the property of 43,000 Alberta grain producers. They are built for service and not for profit. This is not the case with line elevator companies.

2. The finances and operations of Pool elevators are an open book. Each company is scrutinized by seventy delegates who are representatives of the producers. The detailed operations of the whole system and of each and every Pool elevator are thus obtainable from elected delegates. Is there one line elevator company who will provide customers with such information?

3. The Pools use the grain exchange. But this does not imply an idolatrous attitude towards that organization. The Pools believe that the demonstrated weakness of the speculative system during the depression had a serious reflection in the collapse of agriculture, and that a national wheat board would have offered greater protection. The line elevator companies are not in favour of a national wheat board and never were. John I. McFarland, who conducted stabilization of wheat prices for five years, testified: "Theoretically the open futures system is an ideal system for the handling of wheat, if it works; but when it fails to function, as it has failed, because of world-wide subsidies, over-supply and absence of speculators to carry the hedges, then my sympathy leans entirely toward the producer and his protection."

4. The Pools believe the Canadian wheat producers should be given assistance and protection to as great a degree at least as other interests in Canada. The Pools maintain that agriculture is Canada's most important industry and cannot be neglected. The grain trade, on the other hand, continually campaigned for marketing Canada's wheat at world prices.

5. The grain trade say that Pools, operating cost millions. That is a pure fabrication. Under the McFarland stabilization operations Canadian farmers produced, and marketed the surpluses of, wheat crops totalling more than one billion bushels, and Canadian prices were maintained at a substantially higher level than those of competing countries. For months the Canadian premiums ran as high as 25c a bushel over the competitive wheat.

6. The Pools believe that agriculture needs an aggressive co-operative organization supporting its interests and reflecting the expressed wishes of producers and not subservient to vested interest. The line elevator companies ARE vested interests.

7. The line elevator companies resent being designated as a "family compact", but the very advertisement denying this relationship was a joint affair and tends to substantiate the statement.

Far-seeing grain producers will support

ALBERTA POOL ELEVATORS

Pools and the Marketing of Grain

The country elevators use the present marketing system because experience and numerous investigations have proved it to be the best and cheapest way of handling and marketing Canada's wheat.

The Western Pools, who are members of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, state that they use its facilities because they have no other alternative. They have other alternatives. They could:

- (a) Sell direct to Canadian exporters;
- (b) Sell direct to overseas millers;
- (c) Sell direct to overseas importers;
- (d) Establish their own Pool Exchange.

They do none of these things, because they know that the open market, of all systems tried to date, affords the farmer the best price and the best protection. In other words, they use the memberships in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in the same manner as the other country elevator companies use theirs, and for exactly the same reasons.

It may be that some better system can and will be evolved by conference, investigation or experiment. If any other system of marketing which will prove of greater benefit to the farmer can be evolved, it will receive its earliest and strongest support from the elevator companies whose pride it is to have been in the vanguard of service to the farmers of the West for more than thirty years.

The world's vast burdensome surplus of wheat that has been depressing price for the past few years is fast disappearing. Wheat prices in consequence have risen. To obtain the greatest benefit from higher prices farmers should produce a high quality crop. See the nearest Seale or Home Agent about having YOUR crop tested for quality.

As their eyes met she had a premonition that she and this blonde representative of the aristocracy of old New York were fated to clash more than once. Thinly veiled antagonism clashed between them, at almost a thing you could see, instead of merely feel, in its intensity. Starr sensed the trouble with Stephanie at once. The girl was jealous of Michael. Fairbairn's attention to "Play-Girl," and now that she had seen Starr, all Michael's protests that she was purely in his firm's behalf were under scrutiny by Stephanie, who was inclined to have thoughts of her own on the subject. Starr's mocking smile deepened. Her supercilious pose was heightened. There was a hint of devilment in her face as she answered:

"I am interested to meet you, too, Miss Dale. Ha—ha—ha, dear, will I never remember to say Michael—has told me so much about you."

For a second naked venom burned in Stephanie's blue eyes. She flung at Michael in a brilliant voice: "Better be careful to whom you speak of me, Mike, darling. I certainly don't want to be put between the covers of one of Starr Ellison's 'true confessions'."

Starr caught her breath sharply, as though she had been slapped in the face. She closed her eyes, and on opening them, at all once she found herself alone. Stephanie had turned away unceremoniously. Someone had claimed Michael's attention for the moment. Starr looked around bewildered.

A voice caught her ears. Stephanie's frosty voice. Deliberately, too, she turned back to look over her shoulder. Stephanie was saying to somebody:

"I think it's simply terrible that poor Mike has to be associated with a creature of her type, even though it's merely in a business way. His first in handling her book, you know, and they've insisted on his attending to her publicity. . . . As if she needed any more! But Mike's so clever."

And of course her expected to be nice to her on the firm's account, sort of act as a master of ceremony, but my dear, my dear, it's perfectly galling when decent people have to pander to a common adventuress!"

CHAPTER VII.

Starr flushed to the very roots of her hair, so that was the story Michael had told Stephanie! Her red mouth set in a bitter straight line. She might have known. Though surely Michael owed a hold more gallantry than that to the girl who was helping him carry out his fantastic whim? No matter how little he knew of her—or cared to know! No matter what he imagined her previous life had been. He should have some little consideration for her. If his book made him rich enough to marry Stephanie Dale, she of the stiff-necked aristocracy, it would be partly because of the bribe played in his life by Starr Ellison.

Starr was jolted out of her temporary embarrassment; her moment of quick resentment, by a man's voice. At first she thought it was Michael. But the eyes looking down into hers were as black as her own instead of gray. The face was leaner, and the hair incredibly sleek. But Michael's black hair had an arresting wave.

The man smiling at her said: "I believe I'm the only man here who hasn't been introduced to you. I'm beginning to wonder if the oversight isn't deliberate."

Starr recognized him. True, she had not met him, but she remembered the chap saying:

"See that chap over there—dark-complexioned chap with the Menzies look. That's Lance Marlowe. If my book had been 'Play-Boy' instead of 'Play-Girl,' Lance is the very type I would have picked. He's tailor-made for the part. He's been a play-boy for the last."

Starr studied the man as they

IN BED FOR WEEKS WITH BACKACHE

Quick Relief With Kruschen

It was advice from her mother that led this woman to take Kruschen Salts for her backache, before she had finished the first bottle she was feeling better. This is the latest she writes:

"About this time last year I had severe pains in my back and was prostrate for three weeks. I could not even rise in bed. I tried every known remedy, but to no avail. Then I wrote to my mother telling her of my trouble. She wrote to me by return of post urging me to try Kruschen Salts. I immediately bought a bottle and I can truthfully say before I had taken the fifth dose I could sit up. I kept on taking them and in less than two weeks I was about again. I am never without Kruschen now."—(Mrs. A.G. Jones)

Unless the kidneys function properly, certain acid wastes, instead of being expelled, are allowed to poison the bloodstream and produce troublesome symptoms: backache, rheumatism, and excessive fatigue. Kruschen Salts is an excellent diuretic or kidney stimulant, valuable in assisting the kidneys to excrete acid impurities.

for twenty years—always will be, guess.

"I don't suppose he ever found any good reason for being anything else, and it seems to have been wise to let him. His father left him a fortune. He has a yacht, a string of polo ponies, all that sort of stuff, but he's not far as anybody knows he has never done an honest day's work in his life. Or any other kind. His favorite insect is a buying diamond for his current light of love, and they come in and go in quick procession. Also, and this is important, he is the owner of a good many New York City who still cling to such outmoded ideas as decency, as far as the honor and chastity of women are concerned. He is probably the most dangerous man in New York!"

Starr felt a little tinge of excitement when the man whom Michael had so sketchily characterized spoke to her. It was a long moment before she answered his greeting. And her reply was in keeping with the role she was playing.

She drewled, with a slow smile, as her long eyes lifted to him lazily: "Perhaps Michael believes in saving the best for the last."

Lance suggested: "Or perhaps he is not unaware that a friendship so conventionally begun is always all the more thrilling."

Starr laughed, and Lance hurried on, his head a few burning down for her: "Now that we have met, am I not going to have the opportunity for you to tell me all about yourself?"

Starr's eyes dropped demurely, then she lifted them for the scantiest fraction of a second to say:

"There's nothing left to tell about me—that everybody doesn't already know. I might begin as far as I'm free, white, and twenty-one, and—"

"Adorable!" whispered Lance, his voice husky. "Will you dance with me?"

Starr held up her arms and they glided into a dance. He was pleasant, in a way, with little and when the music slid from a waltz into the haunting thrub of a tumba, with the waves of the Spanish guitar holding in its depths the suggestion of the emotional pleading of love in a setting of moonlit balconies and patios inside royal walls, blue-eyed amoristas with mantillas. Starr's steps fitted perfectly into Lance's skilled footfalls. Her own perfection was the result of Michael's teaching.

Lance's sleek black head bent closely over her.

"How has such a girl as you ever managed so long to remain incognito? If you've been anywhere I've been, you've certainly been hiding behind dark glasses."

"Sometimes I wear a long gray beard," Starr murmured.

"Oh, the usual answer," Starr whispered lightly. "It was shown to me plainly how greatly it would be to my advantage to take off my mask. Money, dear man. . . . My appetite for kachekash is insatiable, assure you."

Lance laughed softly. "Money! What a conversation for such a glorious dancer! And here I am trying to think of enough words to try to tell you how gorgeous you are, you, with your Cleopatra eyes, and—"

Starr drew back from him a little and looked up into his eyes. Her whisper seemed shocked.

"Just a hundred?" she asked. "And I had thought—"

"Just the appetizer, my dear," Lance laughed. "There would be a full menu ahead."

Starr studied the man as they danced. His face was not unpleasant. He had a full, rather sensuous mouth, and the bright, roving eyes of a restless pleasure seeker. At such close range she could not see the tiny lines of dissipation marring his well-shaped features, yet even so he looked younger than his years.

She wondered how she was doing with her verbal fencing with him. Was she saying what might be expected of her? The most dangerous man in New York! Well, it was an art meeting. Did she not bear the reputation of being the most dangerous woman? Play-Boy and Play-Girl!

They talked a great deal as they danced and it was a relief to have light chatter with someone who skimmed over the surface of life. The tilt with Stephanie; the long hours during which she was being conched for by Michael; the near, dizzy attraction of Michael—all had combined to stir emotions deeper than Starr Ellison had any right to feel. She must not let herself feel too deeply about anything. Her time was too short, and feelings could be so poignant.

Lance Marlowe was exactly the right antidote for her. He was incapable of feeling deeply. Of that Starr was instinctively certain. The world for him was not what it was to most. It was his playground. That was too short, and feelings could be so poignant.

It came to Starr all at once that Lance Marlowe was one man who could show her how to conduct a life of thrills and excitement in every single day, if she would let him.

He was saying, as they swept down the long glittering floor of the ballroom:

"I still can't see, all joking aside, why you've remained anonymous so long. Were you afraid? No—I he shook his head. "Now that I've seen you I can't believe that's the reason. It must have been out of consideration for your less fortunate sisters whose pale beauty is dimmed by your Egyptian princess brilliancy. Starr. There's no need for all that Egyptian ballyhoo in my case. I'd have known it for the truth no matter how I saw you, nor under what circumstances." He laughed, with a little of understanding exaltation in his voice. "But how you're going to make them all see now!"

It was a charming thing for a man to say, but Starr thought the words pleased him, saw you, nor under what circumstances. He laughed, with a little of understanding exaltation in his voice. "But how you're going to make them all see now!"

Make Good Mechanics

Eskimo Has Considerable Aptitude
States Bishop of Arctic

Telling of an Eskimo convicted of murder and serving five years at the R.C.M.P. barracks, Akkivik, who is "perfectly harmless," looks after the inspectors' child when his wife is busy, and is declared by her to be the "best nurse I could get anywhere." Rev. Dr. Archibald L. Fleming, Anglican bishop of the Arctic, related a number of incidents and observations of his recent tour of his huge diocese, one-third the entire land area of Canada.

The bishop, whose domain comprises 2,500,000 square miles, land and water, travelled 4,579 miles by air, 4,000 by railway and 900 by water, averaging 100 miles a day despite 16 days' delay at Herschel Island, and visited every mission except Bathurst, Inland and Cambridge, where the ice and snow were impossible to penetrate.

While Indians make better carpenters, the Eskimo has considerable mechanical aptitude, said the bishop, telling of using the second hand of his watch and having it replaced by Taylor Pokiak, an Eskimo of Igloolik, after every watchman he had asked to repair it had had to confess inability, and of having his camera repaired by John Koogetok of Herschel Island. Another time he travelled in a motor boat belonging to an Eskimo who, when a cylinder-head had cracked, had repaired it with a strip of canvas and some wire, "and it worked fine."

Natives are now being trained as carpenters, and the new school of 100 children at Akkivik, now the largest building in the empire north of the Arctic Circle, has been built by natives under a master carpenter, Thomas Summers, of Toronto. The new school, which is 130 by 75 feet, has 12 teachers, and the principal is Rev. Dr. Sherman Sheppard, of Halifax.

The new hospital at Akkivik, replacing the one burned down in April, is well under way, the bishop said, and when completed will have 48 beds, so arranged that normally only 24 will be available, the other 24 being cut out to save fuel. Modern operating tables and equipment are being installed, and it is hoped that to-date X-ray equipment by the opening.

All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth to such as keep His covenant and testimonies. Psalm 25:10

Little Helps For This Week

Speak Lord, for Thy servant heareth.
Thou answerest to my anxious soul,
And help me to feel that all my ways are under Thy control.

Are under Thy wise control:
That Thy who cares for the lily,
Thou tenderly lead Thy loving child,
For He made and loveth all.

It is not by seeking more fertile regions where toil is lighter and circumstances free from difficult conditions, but by bringing the high courage of a devout soul, clear in principle and aim to bear what is given to us, that we brighten our inward life and introduce the kingdom of heaven into the midst of our earthly day. If we cannot work out the will of God where he has placed us, then why has He placed us there?

Seal Themselves Up

There are many old Buddhist monks in China who have kept themselves sealed up in little huts since early youth. Many of them have been enclosed more than 40 years in the huts, which contain only openings for food.

The Sahara Desert has added 138 miles of ice-thick African land to its sandy wastes in the past three centuries.

The first 1937 world cruise to set out from New York will be the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain which will still January 9 for a voyage of 125 days, covering 30,000 miles and visiting 23 ports in 23 different countries. Among these countries are Palestine, Egypt, India, Ceylon, Malay Archipelago, the Philippines, China, Japan, Hawaii and back to New York via California, the Panama Canal and Hawaii.

Canada's first complete semi-streamlined air-conditioned train, built for the Canadian Pacific Railway, now in operation with four units in different parts of the Dominion, has been placed on inspection at a number of points across the country and has aroused high praise and enthusiasm on the part of the hundreds of thousands of Canadians who have seen it. In Montreal alone 50,000 spectators went through it in the four days it was on inspection at the Windsor station and the same interest was displayed everywhere else. These units will be in operation between Toronto and Detroit, Montreal and Quebec, and Edmonton and Calgary.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and other delegates to the League of Nations Conference at Geneva sailed from Quebec in September in the Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Britain. Accompanying the Premier was Hon. Basil Dandurand, Government leader in the Senate and Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor.

Captain George Gould, new skipper of the Empress of Russia, made his first trip as master of the vessel early in September. It is his first command of a Pacific Empress, though he has served the fleet in all official capacities from fourth officer to first captain during the past 23 years.

Last of three motor parties visiting Canada this year, 14 British automobilists arrived recently at Quebec on the Empress of Britain. The motorcade under the guidance of Graham Jones, drove from Quebec to Montreal and will visit Ottawa, Toronto, London, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington and New York.
